

My local Christian radio station K-LOVE FM broadcasts on radio frequency 91.1. I understand that the move to, Low Power FM or LPFM will likely prevent my family from being able to listen to this station. K-LOVE is one of only a few Christian radio stations in our area that are able to provide the programming that our whole family can listen to. We are not worried about hearing objectionable material or introducing this material to children that listen in while driving on our vehicles or at our home. Please provide information to us that explains why the LPFM change should affect our listening preference and whether K-LOVE will be able to broadcast as it does over the LPFM frequency.
